A MATRIMONIAL MISFIT.

Spiritualism vs Christiancy—The Usual News in Cases of this Character

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Local papers this morning publish under a New York telegraph heading, a series of letters purporting to have been written last spring and summer by Mrs Christiancy to Edel Bute Giro whose name is coupled with hers in Christiancy's divorce proceedings. These letters are of a very loving character and contain numerous appeals to Giro to come forward and testify for her protection against charges made by Christiancy's counsel in regard to their alleged improper intimacy Accompanying the letters are also several written to a Mr [illegible] in which she implores as a friend of Giro to use his influence to induce Giro to come forward and aid the woman he had compromised from the consequences of what she terms "a thoughtless but [illegible] imprudence"

This evening's Star publishes an interview with Mrs. Christiancy in which she gives her explanation of these letters and the history of her acquaintance with Giro She says among other things that she received many written requests of Giro to be permitted to come to see her at Washington, but finally agreed with a lady friend to meet him at the railroad on his arrival from New York on the strength of an assertion on his part that he was about to visit [illegible] and that knowing that there was much talk about her there, he wished to hear her side of the story to defend her She says that she did not accompany him to the hotel, but subsequently she and her lady friend dined with him at a restaurant. Next morning at her mother's house he urged her to obtain a divorce and marry him but she declined. He came back late in the afternoon and told her that there had been a woman with him at the hotel that afternoon that some had said that it was she (Mrs Christiancy) that Christiancy and his friends were persecuting her and she must marry him. She replied that Christiancy and his friends might drive her to death but they could not make her marry him and she never would He then left but returned in the evening and threatened that if she did not marry him he would say that she was the woman at the St James and ruin her Being again refused he swore vengeance upon her for having scorned him and finally became so violent that to pacify him she said she would marry him Mrs. Christiancy further informed a Star reporter that Giro then returned to New York and she then wrote him retracting her promise But he persisted in claiming its fulfillment and some time afterward when she learned that Christiancy's counsel intended to institute divorce proceedings against her upon the ground of improper intimacy with Giro she took the advice of friends and wrote him the series of letters now published merely as a means by pretending to be in love with him to avert his carrying into effect the threats which he had made in Washington and to induce him to give truthful testimony for her protection

More Denials.

The Evening Star publishes another interview with Mrs. Christiancy in which she denies having written the published letters alleged to have been written by her and addressed to Edilberto Giro These letters she pronounces malicious forgeries evidently gotten up to play their part in this case When she spoke of the published letters the other day she had not read them The letters she sent Giro she now says were in a different vein not so foolish, though imprudent enough for her to write When in New York she hastily glanced at the headings of some of them She further said that to her a common sense [illegible] to her statement [illegible] that her mother [illegible] Miss Mel[illegible] she [illegible] away from him even [illegible] therefore [illegible] woman referred to [illegible] Miss [illegible] sister of W [illegible] well known [illegible] Washington bar She publishes the following card in the Star this evening

Editor Star [illegible] Mr C[illegible] months past and [illegible] letters written by [illegible] Giro from [illegible] those published were written by her She [illegible] but those are the letters They are totally [illegible]. Very respectfully LILLIE L. MELO

Springer introduced a bill for the apportionment of representatives in congress and to secure equal and just representation in the house

There was a short discussion whether the elections committee or census committee should have the bill

Springer said that the bill embodies more than a mere apportionment. It was drawn according to the principle of a minority of the representatives The number of representatives was unchanged during the past decade and was now 293 Deducting territories and the District of Columbia the population was 49 369 724 which divided by 293 left a population of 168 498 as the ratio for one member of congress The bill was referred to the committee on census

Clymer said that Wood who had charge of the funding bill was ill this morning and asked him to proceed with the appropriation bills

The army appropriation bill was read by sections for amendments

Clymer offered an amendment appropriating $12,000 to pay land grant railroads, 50 per cent of what the quartermaster general finds justly due them for transportation agreed to

The committee then rose and reported the bill to the house when it passed

Reagan then moved that the house proceed to the consideration of the house calendar stating that it was his intention to call up the inter state commerce bill agreed to and the calendar was taken up The inter state commerce bill was finally reached and taken up for consideration

Reagan then continued in support of his substitute It provided that one man should not be charged more than another for the same service that no drawbacks or rebates should be allowed that the people should not be deprived of the benefit of competition by pooling freights between competing railroads that the people should be protected by partial restrictions on the power of corporations and that more shall not be charged for shorter distances than for longer distances over the same line Reagan was cut short by the expiration of his hour The matter then went over the understanding being that when it next comes up one or two days will be allowed for debate

The speaker laid several executive communications before him among them a letter from the postmaster general relative to bags of mail matter retained in the postoffice at Washington which were attempted to be sent through the mails under franks

Brown called for its reading pending which the house adjourned.

In a Working Mood

Congress reassembled to-day in a working mood and both houses promptly settled down to business Proceedings in the house of representatives were marked with two notable events First, the passage of the army appropriation bill without any political discussion, and without any extraneous legislation upon it in the unprecedented time of less than two hours and, second the taking up of the inter state commerce bill which was supposed to be buried in the calendar beyond present reach The latter occurrence is divested of its seeming significance however by the fact that the funding bill was only temporarily passed over on account of Chairman Wood's illness, and that there was a general understanding among his friends who number a large majority in the house that the inter state commerce bill shall be laid aside whenever Wood is able to resume charge of the funding bill which will probably be to-morrow

Senator Hill introduced a bill to create an additional land district, to consist of a portion of southern Colorado which lies west of the continental divide The location of the land office is left, as usual to the president but it is intended to be either at Silverton or Durango

THE BUSINESS OF THE COUNTRY.

Comparative Statement of the Volume and Status of Trade in the Great Cities—A General Advance.

NEW YORK Jan 5—The Public to-morrow will omit its usual weekly table of clearing house returns and publish instead tables for the month and year It adds that payments were made in 1880 by exchanges through clearing houses amounting to more than fifty thousand millions of balances paid in cash We have reports as yet from only about half the cities but estimate that the amount will exceed three thousand millions Of the whole amount New York reports 76 per cent or more than three quarters of the exchanges and probably about half the balances of all the large cities Chicago ranks first in proportionate increase of business during the past year a gain due rather to the increase of its manufactures and the expansion of its wholesale trade than to the handling of unprecedented quantities of grain This greatest of western cities bids fair to pass Philadelphia within a short time and to rank next to New York and Boston in the volume of business St Louis though doing less than half the business of Chicago ranks next among the large cities in the ratio of gain when the proportion of exchanges of New York that is due to stock operations is deducted but [illegible] surpasses St Louis in volume [illegible] sharp rivalry of St Louis in the southern trade

The rival of St Louis is rapidly [illegible] forward in Kansas City which is gaining in business more rapidly than any other city [illegible]

[illegible]

At other business [illegible] At Milwaukee the decline in the price of wheat of about 30 cents per bushel or [illegible] per cent within the past year, helps to explain the decrease In view of this decline in prices the increase in the volume of business at Chicago is the more remarkable

Meeting of the League.

DUBLIN, Jan 5—At the weekly meeting of the land league yesterday Davitt said that it was understood that several more meetings would be proclaimed this week and he counselled all branch leagues to give the authorities no pretext for suppression in consequence of wording placards when all meetings were proclaimed He said that the branches of the league will be summoned to meet fortnightly and if these meetings were prohibited the only remedy which would remain would inevitably point in the direction of illegal meetings If the habeas corpus were suspended he was firmly convinced that violence and outrage would usurp the restricted influences of the league

Lord Dufferin on the Irish Question

LONDON Jan 5—Lord Dufferin has published a paper on the Irish Land question in which he strongly condemns the three F's system fair rents free sales and fixity of tenure pointing out that sale of tenants interests has a tendency to saddle holdings perpetually with double rent and he says that the system if granted would only further encourage a new set of agitators to endeavor to dispossess landlords of the remaining vestiges of their rights Lord Dufferin favors the system adopted by the Russian serfs namely buying up of a large portion of the land in Ireland and conversion of the rents into land charges payable to the state for the chronically poverty stricken districts of the west He recommends a great system of state aided immigration to Manitoba and the northwest of Canada to be worked in co-operation with the dominion government He points out as the Catholic Church is supreme in those parts the clergy of Ireland will not oppose emigration thither as they do emigration to the United States

The Times remarks that Lord Dufferin's suggestions although interesting do not forecast the land bill as the government will not make grants from the exchequer or pledge the credit of the country

THE COLUMBIA RIVER BAR.

Importance of Deepening the Channel—A Plan of Improvement Proposed

PORTLAND Jan 5 1881

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Several suggestions have appeared in [illegible] from time to time for the improvement of the navigation of Columbia river bar [illegible] experience with the tidal [illegible] sands know the tremendous [illegible] any work undertaken with a view to render the navigation of an extensive [illegible] and safe should be well matured and the plans adopted should be those that commend themselves as being the most practical In this article we propose showing the necessity for improving the navigation of Columbia river bar and to submit a plan for such improvement for approval and adoption It must however be borne in mind that Oregon has a coast line of over 300 miles north and south that the Columbia river is the only seaport of any magnitude that the state possesses that it is to the port of Portland that the commerce of the state is necessarily concentrated a commerce that is rapidly extending and it is only reasonable to presume that during the next decade the exports and imports will double or even quadruple those of the present day The exports alone for the year just closed approximate very closely to $10 000 000 and the estimate we have just formed will readily be conceded when we consider that our railway system is only in its infancy With the additional facilities that an extensive chain of railways afford communication with all parts of the interior will rapidly increase Hence it is now that attention should be drawn to the all important matter of the improvement of the navigation to Columbia river bar It is a question in which every inhabitant of the state and many of those of Washington territory, are deeply interested and our legislature will doubtless be called upon to devise some means aside from the annual congressional grant to carry out this important work I make this suggestion not forgetting that the proposed work is purely a federal one The state however is more likely to get material assistance from congress if it is shown by adopting the above or similar suggestions that the proposed public work is too important to be left to the caprices of those who do not understand the subject as well as ourselves We are fortunate, however, at this particular time in having in the person of Mr Hayes the president of the United States, a valuable eye witness to the necessities of the proposed improvements which are to Oregon the very life blood of the state. Let them be accomplished and we grow into importance with strides that will astonish the most skeptical Neglect them and it will not be many years before the more favored ports of Puget Sound will outrival the commercial metropolis of the state with the trade of the interior not only of this state but of adjoining states and territories

A country that can boast of having an area of over 95 000 square miles—every portion of which is adapted to the habits of the American people—ought not to present a difficulty in carrying out a public work so essential to the welfare of the state as that now before us In these days of scientific engineering scarcely anything (within bounds) is impracticable In many parts of the world great improvements have (within recent years) been made at enormous costs Ports created barriers removed and navigation aided We might cite the removal of obstructions from Hell Gate harbors of refuge on the coast of England and Europe the breakwater at Plymouth sound alone costing about $7 500 000 and extending over several years in construction It must however be understood that the Columbia river bar is the most extensive and difficult bar harbor in the world and any plan that may be successfully adopted to improve the navigation must necessarily be costly Having submitted a few remarks showing that when capital and a determination to do are combined difficulties in proportion diminish and as it has been proven that difficulties and obstacles presented at other ports and places have been overcome by capital and engineering skill, I add that there is no substantial reason why Columbia river bar should remain a reproach to the enterprise of the citizens of Oregon by further neglect to improve it

I shall now submit a plan for the improvement of the navigation of the Columbia river bar, inviting comments and criticism because if it should be defective the originator would only be too well pleased to have the defects pointed out The plan is based on a system of screw piles (forming piers extending from Cape Disappointment on one side of the navigable channel sweeping around the edge of the northern sand forming a curve from the cape to a line that will meet the flood and ebb tide setting north and south respectively From the opposite shore (or Point Adams) the pier would extend in the direction of the southern sands, and be continued to a point opposite the terminal piles of the northern pier The proposal to commence at the respective capes is not necessarily intended to improve the navigation but to afford security and facilities of construction which could be carried on during ordinarily bad weather and while the bar was comparatively rough as the solidity of the piers and the elevation above the rough water would enable the work to proceed as fast as the piles could be placed in position As the piers approached the more dangerous and boisterous part of the bar, they could be widened to give solidity and resisting power to the force of the breakers It might be mentioned that no plan could be devised that would offer so small a resistance to the force opposed to it as the screw pile pier It would be necessary that every pile should be screwed down below that portion of the surface sand which is continually in motion (probably sixty feet) The structure when completed would show an apparent wall on each side of the channel thirty feet above high water It is to the flood and ebb tides setting north and south respectively and consequently across the current of the river that the continual changes in the direction of the channel must be attributed The proposed piers of screw piles extending from the land on each side of the river will be the means of concentrating the water of the Columbia direct into one channel indicated by the piles on each side which may be from one to two miles wide across the bar It is not proposed to do other than build the piers as they of themselves would have the desired effect of directing and deepening the water in the ship channel and would moreover prevent those continual changes which form a dread to the pilot no matter how careful and skillful he may be If any are skeptical of such a result let them take a few sticks and put them in a running stream in a diagonal direction and they will notice [illegible] In other words [illegible] from its natural course [illegible] and that the matter will meet with the attention its subject demands and [illegible] which I will be ready to reply to as the subject cannot be exhausted in the limits of one article

Facts about the Recent Slaughter—The Boer Force

LONDON Jan 5—An official dispatch from Pietermaritzburg dated to-day says that Capt. Sutro is smiling and Fair begins to look anxious There was nothing done in the senate this afternoon except to cut down items for legislative expenses from $90 000 to $75 000

THE GREAT CANAL SCHEME.

A Paris letter to the London Shipping and Mercantile Gazette sets forth in detail the scheme of the Panama Canal Company, and compares it with that of the Nicaragua company, to the disadvantage, as might be expected, of the latter. And yet it seems that the better prospects of the Panama scheme, as compared with the other, are not exaggerated by this advocate of the first named enterprise. However it is not opinions but facts on which opinions may be founded that become important in this inquiry. It is stated that at the canal congress held in Paris in May 1879 the comparative advantages of the different routes were exhaustively examined—the Nicaragua route among them. By successive eliminations the number of routes that could be considered was reduced to two—the Panama and Nicaragua, and on the final vote by 102 members of the congress 78 were in favor of the Panama canal, 8 were for the Nicaragua, and 16 for various reasons abstained from voting. Advocates of the Nicaragua line have insisted that this decision was reached through influence of certain French interests which were controlled far more by various considerations of a political and speculative nature than by regard for selection of the best route. On the other hand the Panama people claim that the majority in favor of the line adopted was justified by many good reasons, among which the following may be named, viz The distance by Panama from one ocean to the other is 73 kilometres or about 45 miles, by Nicaragua 292 kilometers or 182 miles. The Panama canal would be open throughout without locks. The Nicaraguan canal would require 21 locks. The cost of maintenance would be considerably higher in the latter than in the former. The passage through the Panama canal would occupy a day and a half, by the Nicaraguan canal the time would be four days and a half. The Panama canal has a town and a port at each extremity; on the Nicaraguan canal these would have to be constructed. The Panama canal would run through a region probably free from earthquakes. The line of the Nicaraguan canal passes six great volcanoes and the ruins of twelve towns destroyed by eruptions during the last three centuries. The last reason, it is claimed, would have been alone sufficient to exclude the route for a permanent waterway, which might otherwise be at any moment choked up by a disturbance of the ground. The only advantage presented by the Nicaraguan route was that it would cost only 500 millions of francs, while the first estimates of the Panama canal fixed the expense at 800 or 1000 millions. But that sole advantage has now disappeared. M. de Lesseps has visited Panama with an international technical commission, surveying the district during a period of six weeks, and the result was to furnish proofs that the work presented less difficulties than had been supposed, and, in fact the contractors who dug the Suez canal, and who also executed the works for rectifying the channel at the mouths of the Danube, and for deepening the entry to the port of Antwerp have undertaken to construct the Panama canal for 512 millions of francs. That cost they fix as a maximum, and they farther engage to share with the company the net saving they believe may be effected on that sum. According to the plans adopted, the depth of the canal would be 8 metres (over 28 feet), the breadth on the surface, 50 metres (167 feet), and at the bottom 74 feet. It is proposed to establish six sidings for ships crossing in opposite directions, and an immense reservoir to receive the overflow of the Chagres river in case of inundation. As the height and force of the tides in the two oceans vary, it may be found necessary to construct a half-tide watergate at Panama but that would be the only work of the kind in the passage. It is claimed that the larger part of the labor necessary for the work can be obtained in the Colombian states, and this labor being fully seasoned to the climate, there will be no such difficulties as were encountered in the attempt to construct the Panama railroad by labor from the United States. Large contracts have already been made for laborers acquainted to the tropical climate. It is asserted moreover that the sanitary condition at the American isthmus contrasts favorably with that of the country through which the Suez canal was constructed. There, the laborers had to work beneath a burning sun, in the midst of a desert, and 30 leagues from any habitations or springs of fresh water; while the region through which the Panama canal will run is strewn with villages, is watered by numerous streams, and is bordered by a railway.

Utmost confidence is expressed in the financial status of the company. It is claimed that from a financial point of view the project now presents itself under much more favorable conditions than when offered to the public last year. Doubts were then expressed as to the feasibility of making the canal for even the largest sum then estimated. But the country has since been thoroughly surveyed, and the result is the offer of the contractors who constructed the Suez canal to do the work for two-thirds of the former estimate. Shares have risen in value from 12,000f to 22,000f. This is said to be due in part to removal of apprehensions of opposition from the United States. The Panama canal is presented as a purely industrial and commercial enterprise, managed by a board in which all the countries interested will be represented, and therefore it can not become a pretext for intervention by European states in the political affairs of the western continents. An American committee presided over by a former minister of the United States, now co-operates in the scheme, and satisfactory assurances are said to have been received that capitalists of the United States will join in providing funds for the work. The Suez canal formerly encountered the hostility of England, but was nevertheless carried through, and England now provides three-fourths of the traffic through it and holds nearly half of the shares. The day will probably come when the United States will occupy a similar position with regard to the traffic by the Panama canal. The utility of the work and probable traffic were studied in detail by the congress of Paris. The distance from Liverpool, London, Havre, and other ports of western Europe to our ports on the Pacific, will be reduced by 2500 leagues, or more than one-half, to Sydney the saving is 2200 leagues, Sandwich Islands 2600 leagues, Valparaiso 1400 leagues. From New York to San Francisco the distance will be reduced from 6400 leagues to 1700, to Valparaiso from 4300 to 1600, to Callao from 4500 to 1200. The statistical committee of the congress, presided over by M. Levasseur of the French Institute arrived at the estimate that the value of the merchandise which might take the canal route was £68,000,000 sterling, representing 6,000,000 of tons before the opening of the canal in 1887, the date fixed for the termination of the work. The Panama canal will derive an advantage not enjoyed by the Suez canal from its being accessible to sailing vessels as well as to steamers. The shipping that may use it will not have to be in great part subsequently built but will be ready immediately. The ships will simply have to make a change of route. Had not the Suez canal opened into a sea almost inaccessible to sailing vessels the present traffic might have been obtained at once instead of being the gradual development of a period of ten years. The saving of time and the gain in security by the opening of the canal in voyages from the Atlantic to the Pacific is estimated at 80 francs per ton. The proposed rate of toll is 15 francs per ton. With the estimated traffic of 6,000,000 of tons, the annual receipts will amount to 90,000,000 of francs. Including preliminary and incidental expenses, the total cost of the canal is set down at 600,000,000 of francs, or £24,000,000 sterling. It is proposed to raise 300,000,000f by shares of which one fourth will be called immediately and the remainder as required for the work. The second sum of 300,000,000f will [illegible] bonds or debentures after the opening [illegible] the canal [illegible] Mr [illegible] [illegible] charges [illegible] rate [illegible] capital. This [illegible] estimated at [illegible] to 75 million francs [illegible] [illegible] 80 per cent [illegible] per cent to the founders and the directors. If the receipts amount to 90 millions of francs the 80 per cent of surplus profit will give further dividend of [illegible] per [illegible] holders in addition to the 5 per cent paid as interest making 17 per cent. As [illegible] with the Suez canal [illegible] per cent interest is allowed on the paid up capital [illegible] period of construction. The act of concession gives the company the exclusive right for [illegible] the 99 years from the opening of the canal, for which period the [illegible] levying in the canal and ports dues for light[illegible], anchorage, pilotage, towing, landing, [illegible] also cedes to the company 1,200,000 acres of state lands with the mines they may contain.

Such in general terms is the scheme of the Panama Canal Company. The sudden endeavor to push the Nicaraguan canal as a distinctively American scheme is not a little in the similitude of a panicky effort such as we often see put forth in opposition to [illegible] enterprises. It is a common thing when any enterprise is started to see a rival undertaking brought with a kind of sudden energy to the front. As matters now stand there seems far more reason to suppose that the money will be obtained for the Panama than for the Nicaraguan undertaking.

SPOILSMEN TURNING REFORMERS

Politicians of all parties are very much alike. They can be extremely virtuous when they have nothing to lose by it, and can press reform measures strongly when they think such measures will annoy the adversary. So now Senator Pendleton of Ohio comes forward with a bill to regulate the civil service. His bill provides that all appointments shall be made after open competitive examinations except heads of departments and their first assistants, judges, attorneys, embassadors, ministers, governors, special commissioners, persons serving without pay, persons holding confidential positions, consuls, postmasters of the lower classes, employes between the grades of regular clerks and such others as the president may exempt by general order. Five commissioners are to be appointed by president and senate to hold during good behavior, to make regulations for examining, recommending, trying, suspending and dismissing applicants and officers, holding sessions by districts at stated times and places. The examiners may call assistants from the civil, military, and naval service. The board is to keep a record, and to report to congress. Appointments and promotions are to be made in the order of merit found by the board, having regard also for seniority of service, but one-fourth of the promotions may be made by merit without regard to seniority. All male citizens are eligible, except for a few positions for which professional qualifications are required. The president or the senate may require any person, before or after an appointment subject to confirmation by the senate, to appear before the board for examination. Officers may be removed only for misconduct or incapacity upon due trial by the board. The bill is to introduce into the civil service the same permanent tenure as in the military, with the addition of competitive examinations for each promotion. It is also to make it a felony for any one connected with the public service to solicit or contribute money, directly, or indirectly, for political objects—that is, to "help the party."

All this is very fine though one can not help thinking how far Mr Pendleton or any man of his party would have been from coming forward with such bill had General Hancock been elected. However, many of the features of the bill are good ones. They announce the right principle in regard to the public service. And the situation is favorable for enacting reforms, first in that the executive is disposed that way, and second, in that the democratic congress in pressing such reforms will sacrifice no official spoil. Thus the democratic party has opportunity to assume a virtue without any cost, and to put the republican party into opposition to civil service reform if it shall introduce practical measures and the republican party shall oppose them. Of course the democratic party is not acting in this in accord with its principles and tendencies. But let no one grumble at this. Disappointment, envy, hypocrisy, and no end of other things not to be commended in themselves, frequently take a course which brings about desirable results. Were it otherwise the world would go to the bad so fast that there would soon be no living in it.

The Chicago Tribune recalls the fact that the navigation laws of the United States had their origin in a compromise between the ship-owning interests of New England and the slaveholding interest of the southern states. Gouverneur Morris was the author of the compromise. He proposed "a bargain" between the extreme south and New England. The result was a compromise by which the right to import slaves was to be continued until 1808, a period of twenty years, and the right to regulate commerce was to be given to congress. This is the true story of the origin of those navigation laws about which Maine republican conventions have passed such sentimental resolutions. Gen. Pinckney of South Carolina, is reported to have said in convention on this compact: "It was the true interest of the southern states to have no regulation of commerce; but considering the loss brought on the commerce of the eastern states by the revolution, their liberal conduct to the views of South Carolina and the interest the weak southern states had in being united with the strong eastern states, he thought it proper that no fetters should be imposed on the power of making commercial regulations, and thought his states, though prejudiced against the eastern states would be reconciled by their liberality." Luther Martin, one of the delegates wrote home to the speaker of the Maryland legislature: "I found the eastern states, notwithstanding their aversion to slavery, were very willing to indulge the southern states at least with a temporary liberty to prosecute the slave trade provided the southern states would in turn gratify them by laying no restriction on the enactment of navigation acts." Now that one of the relics of barbarism [illegible] disappeared would it not be well to dispense with the other?

It will not be amiss to request attention to the letter which we print to-day on a plan for improving the navigation of the Columbia river bar. We are not aware that any plan like this has hitherto been proposed here. The letter is written by a person of wide observation and experience, who requests attention [illegible] of his suggestions.

The joint committee on congressional library will report a bill authorizing the erection of a building to accommodate the library [illegible] Judiciary Square in Washington, to cost [illegible] 000,000. It will, when completed, be the finest library building in the world.

A dispatch announces the complete success of the Northern Pacific loan. In the hands of the great syndicate that was to have been expected. The success of the loan gives assurance of rapid construction of the road.

Pastoral Days. By W. Hamilton Gibson. New York: Harper & Brothers. For sale by A. L. Bancroft & Co. San Francisco.

Here is another splendid specimen of book making. It is a magnificent quarto of nearly two hundred pages which are brightly and freshly written and are illustrated with between seventy and eighty designs from the pencil of Mr Gibson who is a close and picturesque student of the woods and fields the skies and waters of his native land. They cover the memories of a New England year, beginning with the delicate foliage of spring and ending with the drifted snows of winter and are peopled throughout with the flowers, the birds and the insects peculiar to the different seasons. Of Pastoral Days the New York Christian Intelligencer says: "Delightfully written it has won a place for the author among our most accomplished and pleasing literature. The illustrations, which are most graceful and captivating drawings and compositions represent the highest achievements of American engraving on wood—which surpasses any such engraving hitherto achieved. The pictures are exquisitely beautiful in their softness, delicacy, distinctness, faithful reproduction of charming rural scenes in New England, and artistic refinement. The compositions exhibit a poetical artistic conception of the highest order."

CITY.

DEATH OF WM STEEL.—After four weeks sickness of heart disease William Steel died at his residence in this city last night He came to Portland in 18[illegible] where he has since resided. His wife, to whom he had been married nearly half a century, and two sons James, cashier of the First National Bank, and George A. John C David and William [illegible] survive him. Mr Steel was a thoroughly honest and honorable man, a good quiet citizen and kind neighbor He was held in great respect by all who knew him and his friends and acquaintances here were not few The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at half past ten

ARRANGING FOR A FIRE ENGINE.—At a meeting of Mount Hood Hook and Ladder Company of East Portland, Tuesday night, J A Newell Frank Payne and T J Matlock were appointed to arrange for the purchase of a steam fire engine This committee is expected to raise money by subscription or other wise and then, in conjunction with the city authorities try to purchase an engine on the install ment plan The company have about $1000 and hope to be able to double that amount in a short time, which if they do will make the purchase easy

THE MEETINGS LAST NIGHT.—At the Congregational church a good religious interest was manifested, if the numerical attendance of the audience may be taken as evidence At the hall of the Y M C A, a large audience assembled The interesting services were conducted by Rev J H Acton and Dr A L Lindsley At the close of the meeting it was announced that there would be a union meeting on Friday evening next. Revs. J H Acton Dr A L Lindsley and J H Gray announced their purpose to be present

ROBERT McWADE COMING.—Arrangements were completed yesterday by telegraph between Mr F W Stechan of the firm of D. W Prentice & Co and Robert McWade for the latter's appearance at New Market theater for one week, commencing Monday, Dec [illegible]. McWade will open in "Rip Van Winkle" in which he at least equals Joe Jefferson if indeed he does not excel. He met with marked success in San Francisco and will no doubt draw crowded houses here.

WEEK OF PRAYER.—Growing interest attends these union meetings. Rev J H Gray, recently of The Dalles, and the present pastor of the Baptist church of this city, conducted the meeting yesterday, and numbers of the laity participated Rev. [illegible] Eady will conduct the meeting to-day at 12 15 according to the arrangement entered into the regular Thursday evening prayer meetings will be held in the churches, and there will not be a meeting in the hall of the Y M C A.

CHINESE ROW.—About half past 11 last night 40 Chinamen, more or less, indulged in a hair pulling, face-scratching side show in the Chinese theater near the stage It seems that the whole gang pitched on one poor fellow—his name could not be ascertained but that's no matter, no one would know his cognomen from three thousand others in town—and literally wiped the floor with him His injuries are serious and may result fatally.

HANDSOME MEMORIAL.—Columbian Engine Co No 1 received yesterday by express from Binghampton, N.Y., a very fine memorial to the late Thomas M [illegible] It consists of a set of resolutions passed by the [illegible] Hose Company No 7 of that city The memorial is executed in the highest style of penmanship and is handsomely framed. It will occupy a prominent place on the walls of No. 1's assembly room.

BURGLARY AT SCIO.—Our regular correspondent at Scio writes that the store of A J Houston & Co, in that town, was entered by burglars on Tuesday evening. They gained entrance by boring holes around the lock of the front door About $350 worth of goods were taken. There is no clue to the robbers.

TEMPERANCE CONCERT.—We call attention to the concert which will take place on Saturday evening next in the rooms of the Y M C A for the benefit of the Temperance Association. The programme appears in our columns to-day, and the public are promised a treat which ought to draw out a full house.

REVIVAL SERVICES.—The religious meetings at the Congregational church this week have been well attended and very interesting. To-night the pastor will speak upon "The Enduement of Power by the Holy Ghost." Strangers cordially welcomed.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.—Judge Deady will announce a decision in this court this morning in case of U. S. v Louis Park upon the cross motions of the plaintiff and defendant for judgment upon the special verdict.

THE NEW INSANE ASYLUM.

Meeting of the State Board to Receive Plans for the Building—One of the Members to Inspect California Institutions.

The first meeting of the board of commissioners for the erection of an insane asylum was held in the capitol building, at Salem on the 1st day of November 1880 and it was ordered that a special meeting be held on Monday the 8th inst at which meeting there was present the full board as follows W W Thayer governor, R P Earhart secretary of state and Edward Hirsch treasurer, together with J J Stites clerk of the board [illegible] was transacted and an special meeting called for Nov 15th The full board was again present and an advertisement was ordered published in the Daily Statesman soliciting the submission of plans and specifications for the construction of a permanent and durable brick insane asylum building, with the most approved method of heating and ventilating and the care and comfort of patients to accommodate 400 patients and to cost not exceeding $100 000 exclusive of convict labor plans to be of such character as to admit of extensions or additions should they be required the sum of $1500 being allowed and paid to the architect or architects whose plans were adopted Plans to be considered at noon on Monday January 3 1881 It was also ordered that requisition be made upon the superintendent of the penitentiary for the use of the brick yard belonging thereto and for clay and convict labor sufficient to manufacture brick and that a contract be entered into with George Collins for supplying wood sand lumber machinery and other appliances for making brick and for superintending the manufacture thereof at the rate of allowing him at the rate of $2 75 per thousand and for good merchantable brick manufactured and delivered at the state penitentiary, and that he be required to manufacture a sufficient number to build said building contemplated not less than 1 300 000 and that he be furnished the said grounds clay and other facilities belonging thereto and a number of convicts not exceeding at any one time thirty eight, and that a guard be also furnished to take charge of the same whenever necessary to be done

At the regular meeting held on Jan 3, 1881 a full board was present The following architects presented plans and specifications for the building F M Saulsbury, of Salem, Justus Krumbein W A Lewis, Joe Sherwin and Clark & Upton, of Portland These gentlemen were present to submit their plans and given ample time to explain them to the board An examination of them reveals a careful study of the subject on the part of the architects, they being as a general thing complete in every detail. The board took them all under advisement, reserving their decision for some time in the future.

The following resolutions bearing upon the subject were presented and on motion adopted

Resolved, That the board deem it advisable for one of its member to visit the various public buildings in California constructed for keeping insane, sick and imbecile patients, with a view to learn the peculiar mode of their construction and detailed arrangements for the care and comfort of patients, and in order to consult with parties best acquainted upon that subject before the adoption of any plan for an asylum for the insane of Oregon

Resolved, That Dr. J. C Hawthorne, contractor for keeping the insane, be requested to inspect the plans and specifications for building an asylum submitted to the board of commissioners, and to communicate to this board his views in regard thereto

UNION TEMPERANCE MEETINGS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I notice in a recent issue, that the clergy of Portland decline to hold monthly union temperance meetings, and as an outsider of the church but as an insider of all reforms, allow me to express sincere regret at this course of those whose trade is claimed to be to "save sinners." The unregenerate will be inclined to query whether the private interests of the church are paramount to the demands of public reform? If, as a distinguished writer has said, "Institutions are made for men, not men for institutions," and, if, as is claimed, the Christian church is the principle means of reclaiming the "the lost," it seems as though the saving of "the dear people" from the most terrible evil of the age is quite as important as regular church service.

Whenever converts to the church are earnestly desired the several sects do not hesitate to make "a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together," "compassing sea and land to make proselytes" to their creeds, but when poor, fallen humanity cries out from the gutters and the wail of widows and orphans makes pitying angels weep, the "priest and Levite pass by on the other side," in haste to "serve God" (?) in the regular way!

I am a friend of the church when it is the friend of truth and humanity, and when it does not subordinate the public good to sectarian interests, which in my opinion are the "lesser good;" and I would be glad to see a united effort against a consolidated evil, believing that God is best served by direct and united effort to save our fellow men from besetting sins

In full communion with the church of Abou Ben Adhem, I am etc, DEAN CLARKE

UPPER WALLOWA VALLEY.

PRAIRIE CREEK UNION Co, Or, Dec. 27.

I see in your issue of the 18th an article called a general survey of Union county, Oregon. We, the citizens of Prairie creek think that our island city correspondent did not give us a good send off The upper valley of the Wallowa has more good land than the remainder of the whole Wallowa and we have a larger population. At Wallowa lake we have a town scarcely one year old that has two stores, two blacksmiths one wagonmaker, one hotel, one cooper shop and one saloon, and on Prairie creek five miles up the valley a sawmill and No 1 planer and a shingle machine, but with all these one thing more is needed to make us happy, and that is a good flouring mill. We have to freight all our flour from Grand Ronde valley and it costs from $12,000 to $15,000 per year, and the cause of this is for the want of a flouring mill Now, we have as good water power as there is anywhere in the state of Oregon and can raise the wheat to make the bread and to spare, and now we will say if any man or set of men will come and put in a good mill we will give a good bonus. Any farther information will be freely given Address

KATIE'S ANSWER.

Och, Katie's a rogue, it is true,
But her eyes, like the sky, are so blue,
An' her dimples so swate,
An' her ankles so nate,
She dazed, and she bothered me too

Till one morn n' we wint for a ride,
Whin, demure as a bride, by my side,
The darlint, she sat,
Wid the wickedest hat
'Neath a purty girl's chin iver tied.

An' my heart, arrah, thin how it bate!
For my Kate looked so temptin' an' swate,
Wid cheeks like the roses,
An' all the red posies
That grow in her garden so nate.

But I sat just as mute as the dead
Till she said wid a toss of her head,
"If I'd known that to-day
Ye'd have nothing to say,
I'd have gone wid my cousin, instead."

Thin I felt myself growing very bowld,
For I knew she'd not scold if I towld
Uv the love in my heart,
That would niver depart,
Though I lived to be wrinkled and old.

An' I said: "If I dared to do so,
I'd lit go uv the baste, an' I'd throw
Both arms round her waist,
An' be stalin' a taste
Uv thim lips that are coaxin' me so."

An' she blushed a more illegant red,
As she said, widout raisin' her head,
An' her eyes lookin' down
'Neath her lashes so brown,
"Would ye like me to dhrive, Misther Ted?"

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

The Springfield Republican thinks Mrs. Kate Chase Sprague, judging from newspaper reports, must be "one of the most imprudent women who ever made fruitless her friends' efforts to preserve her from scandal."

As illustrating the advantage which capital holds over genius, an eastern paper says Mr. Longfellow can take a sheet of clear white paper, write a few words on it and make it worth $50. Mr. Vanderbilt can take another piece of paper, write a few words on it and make it worth $50,000,000.

An exchange says that "the church is the first toll-gate on the road to heaven." Yes, and there is as much ingenuity exercised in trying to run it without paying toll, as on any turnpike in the country.

Our Christmas tree comes from Germany, our Santa Claus from Holland; the Christmas stocking from Belgium or France; while the "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year" was the old English greeting shouted from window to street, and from street back to window, in the "long, long ago."

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The freight market is not very active, owing to the fact that transportation of freights from railroads is very difficult as the rivers are full of ice, while at the same time much freight is delayed by reason of snow blockades in different sections. However, agents of the Franconia expect to get her off by the 10th inst. Rates of freight remain quite firm. All the ships in berth were chartered at full prices, and as one line has a number of contracts at low rates they are obliged to get all they can out of non-contractors. The Hagerstown is loaded and ready for sea. Her cargo comprises in part 1090 cs and 350 bbls whisky, 75 bxs soap, 2850 kegs nails, 255 coils rope, 75 bales hemp, 5800 tons coal, 215 cs canned goods, 444 boxes lye, 100 bbls pitch, 255 bbls rosin, 230 bbls plaster, 3661 bbls cement, 200 cs castor oil, 560 bxs pepper-sauce.

Tonnage is not in abundant supply; still none of our agents are anxious, as they have all been required for current wants except one vessel wanted to load at Philadelphia and one at Boston.

Steamer freights are dull. The departure of Dec. 31st had 16 bbls and 50 cases olives, 50 bxs raisins, 400 cases milk, 25 cases canned goods and a large quantity of railroad material.

45 Years Before the Public.

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN
The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast.
IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL
CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH.

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are so unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hopes of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Disease of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.
